

HONG KONG REVIEW

Chief Executive visits Sweden

Above: Mr Leung (third right) meets the Minister for Finance of Sweden, Anders Borg (second left), to exchange views on issues of mutual concern.

Above: Mr Leung visits Karolinska Institutet in Stockholm, Sweden, and meets with the Vice-Chancellor of Karolinska Institutet, Professor Anders Hamsten.

C Y Leung, Chief Executive (CE), visited Stockholm, Sweden, in May. This was his first official visit to Europe. Mr Leung said a major focus of his visit was to learn more about the development of innovation, creative and technology industries in Sweden and the opportunity for further collaboration with Hong Kong.

While in Stockholm, Mr Leung visited Karolinska Institutet (KI), a world-class medical university and research institution. As Hong Kong is stepping up its efforts to promote technology transfer and realisation of research and development results, Mr Leung said he was pleased to learn more about the KI Innovation System, developed by KI to identify ideas and support commercialisation and exploitation of innovations in medicine and health.

Mr Leung also visited KTH Royal Institute of Technology, a leading technological university in Sweden; Kista Science City, a leading information and communications technology cluster in Europe; Stockholm Royal Seaport, an urban development project with unique green features; as well as the local railway network in Stockholm.

In addition, Mr Leung met with Anders Borg, Minister for Finance of Sweden; Anna-Karin Hatt, Minister for Information Technology and Energy of Sweden; Stefan Ingves, Governor of Sveriges Riksbank (central bank of Sweden); and Sten Nordin, Mayor of Stockholm.

During his visit to Sweden, Mr Leung gained first-hand knowledge on how the Swedish model works, which provides a useful source of reference for Hong Kong in strengthening its efforts in technology transfer and research commercialisation.

Continues on page 2

Above: Mr Leung (left) visits KTH Royal Institute of Technology and is briefed on the latest developments of their research in innovation and technology.

Hong Kong takes steps towards universal suffrage

Hong Kong is now taking significant steps towards implementing universal suffrage for the election of its Chief Executive (CE) in 2017. Universal suffrage was first mentioned in the Basic Law, Hong Kong's mini-constitution promulgated by the National People's Congress (NPC), China's parliament, in 1990. It was not mentioned in the 1984 Sino-British Joint Declaration.

When universal suffrage for the CE election is implemented, five million eligible voters in Hong Kong will be able to cast their votes to choose their own leader in 2017. This represents a historic and significant democratic progress, as compared to the current method of selecting the CE by just 1,200 Election Committee members. This will also make the CE more accountable to the people of Hong Kong, and have a profound effect on Hong Kong's political culture.

Continues on page 3

ALSO IN THIS ISSUE...

Secretary for Justice, Rimsy Yuen, SC, visits London (page 2)

UK secondary students win Hong Kong prize (page 7)

●●● Legal and dispute resolution services

Secretary for Justice visits London

Rimsy Yuen, SC, Secretary for Justice, visited London in October to promote Hong Kong's status as an international legal and dispute resolution services centre.

He delivered a speech at the London Law Expo 2014 and highlighted that there are six reasons why Hong Kong should be considered as an ideal venue for international legal and dispute resolution services in the region. They are Hong Kong's geographic location and the trend of global economic development; Hong Kong's common law legal system; the rule of law and judicial independence; the presence of a strong team of legal and dispute resolution practitioners; strong Government support; and Hong Kong's modern and robust infrastructure, which supports the effective provision of international legal and dispute resolution services.

In respect of queries which have recently been raised as to the state of the rule of law or judicial independence in Hong Kong, Mr Yuen pointed out, "However, all those assertions and queries which sought to suggest that the rule of law and judicial independence in Hong Kong are being eroded are no more than mistaken perception. Not only is there no evidence to support such bare assertions, the objective circumstances point to the opposite direction, i.e. the rule of law and judicial independence in Hong Kong are as good as before."

Apart from attending the Expo, Mr Yuen also delivered a speech at a luncheon organised by the Hong Kong Association. In addition, he attended a seminar organised by Chatham House in London and delivered a speech on Hong Kong's rule of law and constitutional reforms.

During his visit, Mr Yuen met with the Lord Chancellor and Secretary of State for Justice, the Rt Hon. Chris Grayling MP; the Attorney General, the Rt Hon. Jeremy Wright QC MP; and the Ambassador of the People's Republic of China to the United Kingdom, Ambassador Liu Xiaoming.

Left: The Secretary for Justice, Rimsy Yuen, SC, delivers a speech at the London Law Expo 2014 in London.

Above: Mr Yuen speaking at a seminar organised by Chatham House in London.

Above: Mr Yuen (front row, second right) with participants of a luncheon organised by the Hong Kong Association.

●●● Innovation & technology

Chief Executive visits Sweden

Above: Mr Leung delivers a keynote speech at a dinner co-organised by the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London, the Hong Kong Trade Development Council and the Royal Sweden Hong Kong Business Council.

"Closer co-operation between us can achieve a win-win for both Sweden and Hong Kong."

Continued from page 1

During his visit to Sweden in May, Mr Leung attended a luncheon with senior management of Swedish enterprises; a gala dinner co-organised by the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office in London, Hong Kong Trade Development Council and Royal Sweden Hong Kong Business Council; as well as a roundtable dinner hosted by the Royal Swedish Academy of Engineering Sciences.

At the gala dinner, Mr Leung delivered a keynote speech and said that with well-developed technology infrastructure to support advanced research and innovation, Hong Kong provides a vibrant gateway for Swedish design and innovation to reach vast markets in the Mainland of China and across Asia.

"Hong Kong is an ideal testing ground for Swedish firms to promote their products to the huge consumer groups in Asia, and especially in the Mainland of China," Mr Leung said.

Hong Kong takes steps towards universal suffrage

Continued from page 1

In December 2013, the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region (HKSAR) Government launched a five-month public consultation regarding the methods for selecting the CE in 2017 and for forming the Legislative Council (LegCo) in 2016. The consultation period ended in May 2014.

A report on the consultation exercise was published on 15 July 2014. The report said the community of Hong Kong is generally eager to see the implementation of universal suffrage for the CE election in 2017. As a result, the Chief Executive, C Y Leung, submitted a report to the Standing Committee of the NPC (NPCSC) on the same day.

The NPCSC decision on 31 August confirmed that universal suffrage for the CE election could be implemented from 2017 onwards through “one person, one vote” elections. It laid down a clear framework on the specific methods for electing the CE.

According to the NPCSC decision, the election should be in accordance with the Basic Law and the relevant Interpretation and Decisions of the NPCSC.

Candidates for the office of the CE will be nominated by a broadly representative Nominating Committee (NC).

The composition and formation of the NC will be made in accordance with the number of members, composition and formation method of the Election Committee (EC) for the fourth CE.

The NC shall nominate two to three candidates for the office of the CE in accordance with democratic procedures, hence an uncontested election will not be possible.

The HKSAR Government will launch the second-round consultation to gather the public’s opinion on the concrete arrangements of the CE election in 2017. Afterwards, the Government will submit a proposal for amending Annex I to the Basic Law, which sets out the method for CE election, to the LegCo. This proposal must be passed by a two-thirds majority of the LegCo, receive the CE’s consent and finally be approved by the NPCSC.

Some important details, for instance, the composition of the NC and the nomination procedures, would be dealt with in local legislation and do not require NPCSC approval, hence leaving ample room for discussion amongst the Hong Kong community.

Also, the NPCSC decision does not rule out the possibility of further changes to the method for selecting the CE after 2017. Therefore, there is room for further improvements to the arrangements of CE elections after 2017.

Since 1997, the political structure of Hong Kong has been developing towards the ultimate aim of universal suffrage in accordance with the Basic Law. The size of the EC, which currently elects the CE, has been steadily increased to become more representative: from the 400-member Selection Committee in 1996, to 800 for the EC in 2002 and to 1200 in 2012.

Above: The Chief Executive, C Y Leung (centre) with (from left) the Secretary for Constitutional and Mainland Affairs, Raymond Tam; the Chief Secretary for Administration, Carrie Lam; the Secretary for Justice, Rimsky Yuen, SC; and the Under Secretary for Constitutional and Mainland Affairs, Lau Kong-wah, at the press conference on constitutional development public consultation reports and the report to the NPCSC in July.

Timetable for introduction of universal suffrage in Hong Kong

- 1990 The Basic Law of Hong Kong is promulgated by the NPC. This states that the ultimate goal is to select the chief executive by universal suffrage. This was the first time universal suffrage for the selection of the chief executive was promised. The Basic Law was implemented in 1997.
- 2007 The timetable by which the CE can be selected by universal suffrage in 2017 is announced by the NPCSC.
- 2013 The Hong Kong Government holds consultation exercise on constitutional reform.
- 2014 The Hong Kong Government publishes report on the consultation exercise on 15 July 2014.

The CE submits his report on the need to amend the electoral method for the 2017 CE election, with a view to attaining universal suffrage, to the NPCSC together with the Consultation Report, on 15 July.

The NPCSC announces its decision setting out a clear framework on the specific method for selecting the CE by universal suffrage on 31 August.

●●● Health

Improving health regulation

Dr Ko Wing-man, Secretary for Food and Health, visited London in May to learn more about the regulation of the UK's healthcare services.

Dr Ko met Professor Sir Peter Rubin, Chair of the General Medical Council, and also Sir Gordon Duff, Chairman of the Medicines and Healthcare Products Regulatory Agency, to learn more about the regulation of the UK's medical professionals and services. In addition, Dr Ko visited Kew Gardens to learn about the Chinese Medicinal Plants Authentication Centre – which was set up to offer an authentication service for a wide range of Chinese herbs currently available on the international market.

Above: Dr Ko (left) calls on the Chair of the General Medical Council, Professor Sir Peter Rubin (centre) accompanied by Director of Health, Dr Constance Chan (right).

●●● Education

Learning from Finland's education system

Eddie Ng, Secretary for Education, visited Helsinki in May to strengthen Hong Kong's education ties with Finland and learn more about Finland's good practices and development plans.

The Finnish education system is one of the best in Europe.

High-quality teacher education and its success in attracting top calibre students to the teaching profession are regarded as a key factor in the good learning outcome of Finland's students.

During his visit, Mr Ng met with Anita Lehtikoinen, Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Education and Culture of Finland; Jussi Pajunen, Mayor of Helsinki; and Aulis Pitkälä, Director General of the Finnish National Board of Education.

Mr Ng also visited the Department of Teacher Education of the University of Helsinki; Aalto University; HAAGA-HELIA University of Applied Sciences; Omnia Vocational College; Viikki Teacher Training School; and Sakarimäki School in Helsinki. He delivered a speech on the latest developments in Hong Kong at a reception co-organised by the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London and Finland-Hong Kong Trade Association, where he also met with members of Finland's business and education sectors, including Finnish companies specialising in education technology.

Above: Mr Ng with the Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Education and Culture of Finland, Anita Lehtikoinen.

●●● Education

Director-General visits Edinburgh

Leaders of the Scottish higher education sector learned about opportunities of collaboration with Hong Kong during a roundtable luncheon hosted by Erica Ng, Director-General of the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London.

The luncheon held in Edinburgh was attended by principals and vice-principals of prestigious universities in Scotland, including University of Glasgow, University of Aberdeen and University of Strathclyde.

At the luncheon, Ms Ng spoke about Hong Kong's role as an education hub, and she encouraged collaboration between Hong Kong and Scotland on higher education and research.

During her visit to Scotland, Ms Ng also visited the Biofuel Research Centre at the Napier University to learn about the development of renewable and sustainable energy in Scotland.

Above: Ms Ng with Martin Tangney, Director of Biofuel Research Centre, Edinburgh Napier University.

●●● Legislature

Legislative Council delegation visits Nordics

A delegation of the Hong Kong Legislative Council (LegCo) visited Finland, Norway and Denmark in September.

The delegation was led by Hon Emily Lau Wai-hing (Leader) and Hon Chung Kwok-pan (Deputy Leader) and comprised eight other LegCo Members. During the visit, the delegation met with representatives from each country's legislature, government and businesses.

Above: The LegCo delegation presents a souvenir to First Deputy Speaker of the Presidium of the Danish Parliament, Bertel Haarder (fifth left).

●●● Business

Hong Kong – Nordics Tax Information Exchange Agreements

In August, Hong Kong and six Nordic jurisdictions, namely, Denmark, the Faroes, Greenland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden, signed tax information exchange agreements (TIEAs).

Welcoming the agreements, Secretary for Financial Services and the Treasury, Prof K C Chan, said that the signing of the TIEAs with the six Nordic jurisdictions demonstrates Hong Kong's continued commitment to fulfill its international obligations on promoting tax transparency, along with Hong Kong's efforts to expand its network of comprehensive agreements for avoidance of double taxation with its trading and investment partners.

Each of the six TIEAs will become effective after the completion of ratification procedures by Hong Kong and the respective Nordic jurisdictions.

Above: Hong Kong signs agreements with six Nordic jurisdictions for exchange of information relating to taxes.

●●● Business

Hong Kong and Skåne of Sweden sign MOU

Gregory So, Secretary for Commerce and Economic Development, signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) on Co-operation in the Fields of Innovation Policies and Innovative Solutions in August with the President of the Skåne Regional Council in the Kingdom of Sweden, Annika Annerby Jansson, and the Vice-Chancellor of Kristianstad University, Professor Sanimir Resic, who was representing the Lärosäten Syd – Universities in southern Sweden.

Speaking at the signing ceremony, Mr So said, "Recognising that the challenges of stimulating innovation and economic growth are of mutual interest to both Hong Kong and Skåne, we have thus reached the understanding of sharing the experience and engaging in more co-operation activities in the fields of innovation policies and innovative solutions."

The MOU covers six areas of co-operation, namely smart sustainable cities, personal health, smart materials, life science, food sciences and design.

●●● Business

Exports up

The volume of goods exported from Hong Kong rose nearly 11%, compared to the previous year, it was announced in June. During the same period imports of goods rose 6.4%.

Above: Kwai Tsing Container Terminals.

Maritime links strengthened

The Under Secretary for Transport and Housing, Yau Shing-mu, led a Hong Kong Maritime Industry Council delegation to London in June to promote Hong Kong's maritime services.

During the visit, Mr Yau spoke at a seminar hosted by the Hong Kong Trade Development Council to promote Hong Kong as a regional transportation and maritime hub. The delegation also called on maritime organisations, including Corporation of Lloyd's of London, Maritime London, Baltic Exchange and London Maritime Arbitrators Association.

Mr Yau also met with the Rt Hon. Patrick McLoughlin, Secretary of State for Transport (pictured left) and other senior UK government officials to exchange views on transport and housing issues.

●●● Business

Competition for global entrepreneurs attracts 550 entries

Entrepreneurs from 47 countries have entered the 2014 StartmeupHK Venture Programme, an international competition to find innovative start-up companies who want to expand their businesses globally from Hong Kong.

The 40 semi-finalists, announced in September, included startups in retail, marketing, creative design, social media, smart mobile applications, health care and financial data analysis.

Increased popularity

The competition attracted 550 entries from countries including the US, Israel, India, the UK and Hong Kong. Around half the entries were from ventures in areas such as technology, information and communication.

The 12 finalists will attend StartmeupHK Week in November, where the three Grand Award Winners will be announced. "I am happy to see the increasing popularity of our competition as evidenced by the almost 40 per cent increase in the number of entries," said Simon Galpin, Director-General of Investment Promotion at InvestHK, which organises the competition.

●●● Transport

Secretary for Transport and Housing visits London

Secretary for Transport and Housing, Professor Anthony Cheung Bing-leung, visited London and Southampton in September to promote Hong Kong as an international maritime centre and logistics hub.

Above: Professor Cheung (right) receives a briefing on London Underground during a visit to a control room.

Professor Cheung called on the Maritime and Coastguard Agency and visited the Port of Southampton to look at port and vessel management. He also called on the Transport for London, and toured the London Overground and London Underground. Speaking at the Hong Kong Association Membership Forum Professor Cheung highlighted Hong Kong's global-ness as an international hub, what "connectivity" means to Hong Kong and how that would shape the city's future.

Professor Cheung speaks at the Hong Kong Association Membership Forum in London.

●●● Technology

Hong Kong Science Park expands

The third phase of Hong Kong Science Park, which provides world-class research and development offices and laboratories, opened in September. The park is already home to more than 480 technology companies, employing over 10,000 staff. When Phase 3 is completed in 2016, it will provide room for a further 150 technology companies, and an additional 4,000 high quality jobs.

Speaking at the opening of Phase 3, Financial Secretary John C Tsang said, "Beyond providing state-of-the-art infrastructure, Hong Kong Science Park must also strengthen and expand its networking role linking higher education and research with the industrial and business communities of Hong Kong and the world."

Also in September, Fanny Law, Chairperson of the Hong Kong Science and Technology Parks Corporation (HKSTP), visited the UK. At a reception co-organised by the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London and the HKSTP in London, Mrs Law delivered a speech on "Does Hong Kong have what it takes to become the Tech Hub of Asia?" and met with Hong Kong scientists working in the UK.

Above: Mrs Law speaking at a reception in London.

●●● Technology

Free Wi-Fi for everyone

Anyone in Hong Kong can now access free Wi-Fi on their smartphones or mobile devices anywhere they see the new Wi-Fi.HK sign.

Launched in August, the service offers either completely free Wi-Fi or at least 30 minutes free, with no registration required.

It is important to have convenient and a free public Wi-Fi service to enable the use of various types of mobile apps anytime and anywhere, said Financial Secretary John C Tsang, launching the service. Wi-Fi.HK enables the public and visitors to get easy and convenient access to online information from the Internet and enjoy the efficiency brought about by information and communications technology, he added.

More than 5,000 hotspots are now available under the Wi-Fi.HK brand. Participating organisations include Hong Kong Telecommunications (HKT) Limited, Hong Kong Broadband Network Limited, Hutchison Global Communications Limited, Y5ZONE Limited, Airport Authority Hong Kong, the Hong Kong Science and Technology Parks Corporation and Hong Kong Cyberport Management Company Limited.

Above: Hong Kong International Airport now offers free Wi-Fi under the Wi-Fi.HK brand.

●●● Culture

Wild Duck performed in Norway

A dance collaboration between Norway and Hong Kong came to Oslo Opera House in August when Hong Kong City Contemporary Dance Company presented their acclaimed show, Hedvig from The Wild Duck.

Inspired by The Wild Duck, Ibsen's modern classic, Hedvig was choreographed by Ina Christel Johannessen, artistic director of Norway's Zero Visibility Corp, with her renowned dynamic physicality, and performed by the technically brilliant Hong Kong Chinese dancers of the City Contemporary Dance Company. The dance company's Oslo tour is supported by the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London.

Ebola response plan for Hong Kong

The Government has announced a plan to prepare for and deal with a possible outbreak of Ebola virus disease in Hong Kong.

The plan, which is modelled on similar plans to deal with influenza pandemics and Middle East Respiratory Syndrome, is based on a three-tier system of alert, serious and emergency.

"The plan ensures that Hong Kong would be equipped with the core capacities to prevent, detect, characterise and respond quickly, efficiently and in a co-ordinated manner," said a spokesman for the Department of Health.

There has so far been no confirmed Ebola case in Hong Kong.

●●● Education

UK secondary students win Hong Kong prize

Five lucky UK secondary school students studied at a Hong Kong university this summer, thanks to a competition organised by the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office (HKETO), London.

To enter the completion, Hong Kong: A Dream Destination for University Study 2014, students had to describe why they thought Hong Kong would be a great place to study. Entries included essays, websites, blog entries and YouTube videos.

The competition is designed to encourage more students from the UK to go to Hong Kong to further their university education, said Erica Ng, Director-General, HKETO, adding: "Our tertiary institutions are recognised as leading institutions on various international league tables. Three universities in Hong Kong were ranked among the top 40 universities in the world by the QS World University Rankings 2013."

The competition was sponsored by Cathay Pacific Airways and supported by the British Council, and has the participation of four key universities in Hong Kong.

Above: The five winning students pictured with the organisers and sponsors. From left: Jennifer Thorpe; Rubi Ingaglia; Taiyba Aftab; Angus Barclay, General Manager Europe, Cathay Pacific Airways; Erica Ng, Director-General, HKETO; Karen Luard, Chairman, Hong Kong Society; Sir Martin Davidson KCMG, Chief Executive, British Council; Viviane Stephenson; and Alexander Johnstone.

●●● Sport

Asian Games Success

Hong Kong athletes won a record-breaking 42 medals, including six golds, at the 17th Asian Games which took place in Incheon, South Korea recently.

Hong Kong's team of 472 athletes competed in 31 events. "Hong Kong athletes have performed brilliantly and demonstrated Hong Kong's can-do spirit in the international sports arena," said Chief Executive C Y Leung. Hong Kong athletes went on to win a further 44 medals at the Asian Para Games.

Hong Kong athletes also won seven medals at the 2nd Summer Youth Olympic Games, held in Nanjing, China, this August.

Right: Secretary for Home Affairs, Tsang Tak-sing (right), greets returning athletes at Hong Kong International Airport.

●●● Culture

Hong Kong film premiere

Audiences in Manchester, UK, will have the chance to enjoy some of the best Hong Kong films as part of the Asia Triennial Film Programme at Cornerhouse arts centre. The festival features a number of UK premieres, including Benny Chan's action movie The White Storm (pictured), and Ivy Ho's crime thriller Two For the Night.

The festival started in September and continues throughout October and November, culminating on 19 November with the UK premiere of director Jessey Tsang's new film Flowing Stories. The film programme is supported by Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London, and is part of Asia Triennial Manchester 14, a city-wide festival of visual culture.

●●● Culture

Cantonese opera comes to Britain

UK audience had a chance to enjoy Cantonese opera in August during a series of performances in London and Edinburgh by the Spring Glory Cantonese Opera Workshop from Hong Kong.

"Cantonese opera is a popular traditional art form in Hong Kong and part of Hong Kong's cultural heritage. In 2009, it was inscribed onto UNESCO Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity," said Erica Ng, Director-General of the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London (HKETO), which co-organised the London performance.

Led by acclaimed Cantonese opera maestro from Hong Kong, Yuen Siu-fai, the performances in London featured three classic Cantonese opera acts as well as a duet of Cantonese music. Mr Yuen and young Cantonese opera performers were featured.

Mr Yuen and his performance troupe then went on to perform at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe for about two weeks. The HKETO hosted a reception after one of the performances in Edinburgh.

"In Hong Kong, we are in the course of building a brand-new Chinese opera centre, the Xiqu Centre, which will provide a platform for preserving and promoting Cantonese opera in Hong Kong and beyond," Ms Ng said.

Above: Actors from Spring Glory Cantonese Opera Workshop perform a scene from a classic Cantonese opera.

Left: Ms Ng with members of the Spring Glory Cantonese Opera Workshop, who performed recently in London and Edinburgh.

●●● Culture

2014 Dragon Boat Festival

Thirty six dragon boat teams competed in the thrilling 2014 London Hong Kong Dragon Boat Festival, which took place at the London Regatta Centre in June.

Visitors to London's Royal Albert Dock enjoyed an exciting array of food, music and dance as well as the main attraction of spectacular dragon boat races.

"Dragon boat racing symbolises strength, energy, determination and competitiveness that embody Hong Kong's 'can-do' spirit," said Erica Ng, Director-General of the Hong Kong Economic and Trade Office, London, which sponsors the annual event.

Above: Crowds enjoy the 2014 London Hong Kong Dragon Boat Festival at London's Royal Albert Dock.

Above: Ms Ng at the 2014 London Hong Kong Dragon Boat Festival.

FORTHCOMING EVENTS

Wednesday, 14 January 2015

The Chief Executive, C Y Leung, will deliver the 2015 Policy Address in Hong Kong

Wednesday, 4 February 2015

Chinese New Year reception in Helsinki, Finland

Thursday, 5 February 2015

Chinese New Year reception in Oslo, Norway

Monday, 16 February 2015

Chinese New Year reception in Stockholm, Sweden

Monday, 23 February 2015

Chinese New Year reception in London, UK

Tuesday, 24 February 2015

Performance by the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra at Cadogan Hall, London

Wednesday, 25 February 2015

The Financial Secretary, John C Tsang, will present the 2015-16 Budget in Hong Kong

Monday, 2 March 2015

Chinese New Year reception in St Petersburg, Russia

Tuesday, 3 March 2015

Chinese New Year reception in Moscow, Russia

Tuesday, 3 March 2015

Performance by the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra at Symphony Hall, Birmingham

Thursday, 5 March 2015

Chinese New Year reception in Copenhagen, Denmark